

By Immogen and Atlanta who are passionate about being eco friendly

In the UK around 330million tonnes of rubbish is generated each year. Landfills are getting bigger and bigger and our oceans are being polluted. Many people feel like we need to do something.

One of these ways is to choose eco-friendly products and packaging. We were lucky enough to have an interview with lush a vegetarian,80% vegan and cruelty free cosmetic brand. “Lush has been doing naked products since the late 80s starting with the naked shampoo bar”. Lush have also brought out a 100% recycled paper/card tray for people to put their products in to. Their packaging also consists of 100% plastic and paper packaging.

“One of our first naked products was the natural henna bar